

What's in Your Water?

The EPA sets guidelines for what is permissible in drinking water at your home. However, these guidelines allow for traces of microorganisms, disinfectants, inorganic chemicals, organic chemicals, and more.

Chemicals such as chlorine and chloramine are added by your water authority to remove contaminants during the treatment process.

Fluoride is often added to the water delivered to your home. Minerals and other "permissible" elements in your tap water can give off an odor, taste metallic, and make your drinking water appear cloudy.

You use water every day for drinking and cooking. A constant supply of clean, fresh, healthy water will improve the taste of coffee, tea, pastas, salads, and vegetables. Plus, it's the healthy choice for your family, pets, and plants around your home.

Your builder has chosen Dupure to provide your new home with water filtration solutions. That's because our advanced filtration systems remove the majority of the chemicals, minerals and potentially harmful contaminants in your drinking water.

Protect Your Investment

Congratulations, you've just purchased your dream home. Everything is new, sparkling and fresh.

To keep it looking that way you must treat your water so that the minerals in your water supply do not leach in to your natural stone counters, spot your chrome faucets, damage appliances, clog water pipes and irreparably damage your water heater.

Protect your investment with a affordable, comprehensive, whole-home water treatment solution from Dupure.
